About This Content

Henry Stauf's mansion has been abandoned for as long as anyone dare remember. Stauf was a master toy maker, a maker of amazing puzzles and this strange house was his greatest creation. Now the mansion stands empty, rotting ever since the children started dying, ever since the six guests came. Now there are only the eerie lights and the terrible sing-song rhymes of the children.

And suddenly, you are in the house. You move from room to room, step-by-terrifying-step, as scenes from that night of horror come to life. Because Stauf's game isn't over. There were six guests the world knew about - and there was one other. Stauf's mad mansion lives again. And only you can end the nightmare and learn the secret of The 7th Guest.

The high seat at the far end of the hall is empty. There's no sign of the King; Blaise, chief of Uther's druids, welcomes guests to the hall in his stead.

"Oh-hoh. Here's trouble," murmurs Cai—but it's not the empty chair he means.

Shouldering his way through the throng comes your half-brother Bedwyr, and the look on his face is not one of friendship.

"You!" He grabs you by the collar and pushes you up against the wall. "This is your doing!"

He's been drinking, that much is obvious—his cheeks are flushed. You can see Gawain, watchful, behind him.

"Come on," says Cai lightly, picking up a goblet. "Let's just have a drink, hey?"

Bedwyr's eyes are furious, locked on yours. "You were with him," he says softly. "If a true Briton had been there, Uther would not now lie bleeding his guts out on the bed linens, you piece of Roman filth!"

How do you handle this?

- ☒ I punch him—I can't let him treat me like this in public!
- ☐ The feast doesn't need this kind of display. I'll try to reason with him, to calm him down.
- ☐ I know he needs someone to rage at right now. I'll let him have this victory—he'll feel better for it.
